

Little Ukraine: The Kerry Ukrainian community are joining K-FEST to share their diverse culture with us on Saturday. The re-located Ukrainians, now living in Kerry, will give musical performances, display visual arts, sell crafts and share their local cuisine within "Little Ukraine". Ukrainian short films will play throughout the day as well as an evening feature film presented at 'The Goat'.

Welcome

It's great to be back to our usual June Bank Holiday slot. We managed to sneak a K-FEST in last year between lockdowns at the end of October. With a short break we started organising the 2022 festival this February, giving us a little over three months before we have to be ready. This has meant more frequent and longer meetings for the committee, and I am deeply grateful to each member of the K-FEST team for staying the course and making sure we have put together a great festival.

From June 3rd to 6th, you can expect a wide range of visual and performance art, music, spoken word, drama, film and family events. As the cost of living soars our programme of events has grown with nearly all of them free to attend, so we look forward to seeing you there.

As an arts festival, our hearts were broken to see the suffering of the Ukrainian people. Just as Irish people have welcomed Ukrainians into their cities, towns and homes, we are welcoming those from the Kerry Ukrainian community to join our festival to share their art, music and culture.

I would also like to take this opportunity on behalf of everyone involved with K-FEST to pay tribute to one of our own committee members who has passed away since our last festival. Doug Victor, we will always miss you. Ar dheis Dé go raibh a anam.

Lastly, we have really been amazed by the level of support from the local business community, public funding and individuals who have helped fund this year's festival through sponsorship and donation. On behalf of K-FEST, Killorglin and artists everywhere - we thank you.

THANK YOU KILLORGLIN

The list above reflects only our largest sponsors. K-FEST has countless supporters — businesses, organisations, and individuals who give to the festival, whether through fundraising, attendance at our pub quiz, vouchers for draws, or services in-kind. Pubs and restaurants serve as nighttime music venues, as well as patrons. Building owners offer their spaces and even accompanying amenities, and numerous volunteers offer their time. See www.kfest.ie for a detailed list.
